To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing on behalf of the Home Buyer Assistance Center (HBAC) to urge the Treasury to prohibit check cashers and other "payment service providers" from providing recipients access to electronic federal benefits, as part of EFT'99. Check cashers prey upon low-income consumers and deny their customers the consumer protections provided at mainstream financial institutions.

The Treasury began EFT'99 with the stated goal of bringing the unbanked into the financial mainstream. Allowing check cashers to be the access point for federal benefit recipients to receive their funds, however, does exactly the opposite. Check cashers force consumers to pay excessive fees for transactions that should be available to them at a reasonable cost. For instance, in California check cashers charge an annual percentage rate of almost 400% for a payday loan! With interest rates this high, recipients are prevented from having access to their benefits at a reasonable cost.

Check cashers also provide few consumer protections that they would receive if they banked at a federally insured financial institution. If federal benefit recipients have an account with such fringe bankers, check cashers may withhold federal funds as payment for past sums owed to the check casher.

By allowing check cashers to provide access to federal funds, the Treasury will not only condone but also stimulate the abusive practices of check cashers. While the customer will go to the check casher to receive their federal benefits, they may also become potential customers for other numerous abusive transactions. The number of check cashers has doubled since 1990, and is steadily growing. This profitable industry makes no reinvestment back into the low-income communities in which they operate.

It is time the Treasury made EFT'99 a program that truly protects consumers and ensures that low-income recipients are not relegated to a position outside the financial mainstream. Please prohibit arrangements wherein recipients of electronic federal payments gain access to benefits through non-depository payment service providers.

Sincerely,

FRANCINE McKINNEY
President
